THEY SAY.

Babies and children you can have.
The offer to the President by the self-constituted committee.

Register Lyons and Recorder Cheatham should not be hoodwinked into a sham game.

When will Jim Lewis return to Louisiana?

There is nothing for him in this city.

Demas will win.

Major Fleetwood should be given a command.

The negroes will fight when duty calls him.

There is more flim flam games practiced in this city than in any other place in the country.

This place is full of rattle brain politicians.

If Tim Fortune was as good a grammarian as he is an acrobatic politician he would be a success in journalism.

He resorts to second class journalism when he is defeated in argument.

The people in Louisiana will stand by Demas.

Governor Kellogg will not make much out of the defeat of Demas.

He will never get another delegate from that state.

Kellogg's occupation is gone.

The success of all men is honesty.

There is but little hope for the negro in District appointments.

When you tell the truth stick to it.

Retribution is bound to come to the knave.

Trustee Thomas Wright, cannot be intimidated by any threats.

Trustee Brown will have his innings now.

Speak what you know, it will pay sometimes.

In union there is strength.

All the world is excited over Spain.

Never betray a friend.

Fleetwood, Holland, Demas or Douglass should be given a black regiment to command.

What has become of the President order to repeal the civil service law.

President McKinley has been true to the negro.

What we need now is a black general.

Are we to have a black general?

There may be some changes in a few days.

Commission John W. Ross is not ungrateful.

He cannot do everything himself.

Senator Hanna is not at all disturbed.

The Ohio element failed to defeat him, now attempt is made to blacken his reputation.

President McKinley has fulfilled his promises.

He has made more appointments of negroes than any President who has yet occupied the Executive Mansion.

We need a colored president of Howard University.

Whites are getting rich on the bones of negroes.

MAJOR-GENERALS.

The nomination of major-generals by President McKinley shows that sectional feeling is not entering into this campaign. The north and the south being handsomely mixed up in this campaign, it is hoped that the southern fire-eater will return the compliment and cease antagonizing the policy of the President by paying more attention to corn and cotton than to the ugly forms of lynching, bulldozing, and the equally objectionable habit of damning the Yankee. When General Lee can afford to accept the epithet of Yankee, the rest of the southern 'chivalry' might afford to play the part of law-abiding citizens.

It has been hinted that the President has appointed a few major-generals from the south for the purpose of leading the colored troops. We do not take much stock in this idea. Should those generals lead the colored troops they would be compelled to treat the troops as comrades, and it does not seem to us that these sticklers on social equality could yield a peg on that score. Of course, there is no connection between a soldier and his leader and social matters; but the southern brother is so very touchy on that matter that they would more than probably object. So far as the colored troops are concerned, it matters but little who leads them so they are led by brave, fair and manly men who will give them credit and promotion where it is deserved. But the thing is all mixed, and the erstwhile bottom rail is fast finding a place in any part of the social and political fence.

There is much good to be done in the High School just now. The time for changing text books is almost at hand, and our trustees should be on the alert lest some ambitious literary adventurer should use our schools as a stepping stone to notoriety, while they foist on us a lot of scholastic hogwash.

General Harries is now a very busy man in military circles, and the question is whether he can give sufficient time to school matters. He has been a wide-awake trustee, and his presence will be missed. He has been interested in the colored schools ever since he has been a member, and we trust that he will be able to remain and give us his able assistance and advice.

THE BLACK AND WHITE.

The constitution of the National Guard of the District of Columbia, consisting as it does of men who have long since expressed their willingness to fight if necessary, is an instance which emphasizes our position in the soldier business, about which there has been so very much discussion among colored circles. The Guard of the District is composed of white and colored battalions, and as a proper and logical result, colored officers have been selected along with the whites. This selection has not been on account of senseless agitation and self constituted delegations, but because colored officers became necessary on account of the record made by our colored militia, and as a proper recognition of the claims of the colored people. The principle we desire to accentuate is that we ought not and need not expect to be appointed on the bluster of men who would not go to the war if they were asked; but when persons have shown patriotism and energy enough to raise a regiment, there can be no objection to a claim for commanding positions. In some of the States colored men are raising troops of real fighters, and there is no reason to suppose that the men will not be properly recognized.

A TIMELY SUGGESTION.

The letter that Dr. John R. Francis sent to the board of school trustees was timely. Dr. Francis is not the only person who disapproves of Emancipation Day parades and turning loose in the public streets thousands of school children. It is hoped that if the school trustees will not take kindly to Dr. Francis' letter, the Commissioners will. These 16th day of April parades are injurious to the colored people.

WHERE IS THE NEGRO.

Thirty-seven years ago the southland in this country took up arms against the other sections, to maintain the divine right to hold an enslaved alien race, and make of it a "nation of mulattoes," and lost. Today those very men, and the sons of those who laid down their lives for the mistaken principle of the divine right of slavery, are rushing to arms, and side by side, shoulder to shoulder, with their late foes who won in that great contest, they are marching by land and traveling by sea, to liberate and set free a "nation of mulattoes"—as described by one of the most venerated of their citizens. Not only is this so, but in spite of the fact that it would seem to be most peculiarly appropriate to have the colored brother, so lately emancipated, and who therefore knows how it is for himself, have a front seat in the show, the fact is that he is unanimously and universally plainly told, that his services are not desired. Not even to stop a bullet from a better(?) man. It puzzles us greatly. Why this great and overweening anxiety to save us from the pestilence that walketh by noonday and the bullet that whizzeth. Our gray matter is suffering paralysis, and our souls faint for a knowledge of the why-ness.

North Carolina and Massachusetts are the only States in the Union that have not discriminated against their black sons. Let us hope, even if in vain, that the pitiful ten thousand remaining may be given by the government to the negro entire. Give us a show.

DEMAS' LOYALTY TO THE NEGRO.

WHILE LEWIS BLUNT AND OTHER LILY BLACKS ARE FIGHTING AGAINST THEIR PEOPLE.

(Special to THE BEE.)

New Orleans, La., May 15, 1898.—In consequence of the war between the United States and Spain, Hon. Henry Demas has enrolled 1500 colored immunes, which are ready to be mustered into the United States volunteer service.

A committee of citizens of this place, white, including several republicans who had ridden to prominence and obtained wealth, chiefly by riding on the backs of negroes, among them Gen. A. S. Badger, organized a defense Committee On the Forts, below the city, which was undergoing repairs. About six hundred people were employed, and it was arranged to employ only white labor. This was done for more than two months. Colored men were continually refused a part of the government work. Many complaints were brought to the attention of Mr. Demas, and he at once took steps in securing a portion of the work on the forts for his people. Major Irwin, who is in charge of the work, received a strong protest from Mr. Demas, who succeeded in having 187 men appointed as the first installment, with more to follow. The men who opposed Mr. Demas were totally indifferent to the welfare of the colored people. Now that he has succeeded a few of his enemies are soliciting his aid to help them to get work on the fort.

THE BLACK BRIGADE LEADER.

HENRY DEMAS BEFORE 5000 CITIZENS IN NEW ORLEANS, LA. BELOW IS THE SPEECH OF HON. HENRY DEMAS TO THE CITIZENS OF NEW ORLEANS, ORGANIZING A BLACK BRIGADE.

Colored Americans: This multitudinous gathering tonight at a momentous crisis in our country, at a time when the land and water, and even the air are pregnant with the breath of war, is unmistakably evidence of your loyalty and patriotism equal to that of any other people.

The object for which you have assembled has already been made known to you. Our country is about to be engaged in war with Spain and the same spirit and feelings that actuated others in their zeal to preserve and defend the flag under which we live, ought to find a response in us.

My purpose is not to pledge any one, but rather I am here with you to consult your wishes and deliberate with you as I do that you will signify by your own volition the meet and proper action at this time.

For that reason, I join in this call for some tangible expression, feeling assured that your readiness to respond would cause no disappointment. In this particular, you have exceeded my expectation. This meeting I sincerely hope will be expressive of your sentiment, pure and simple and its deliberations be measured by such standards that will accrue to the good name and benefit of this people and country.

War is deplorable and should be averted when possible by the employment of all honorable and peaceful means, without the sacrifice of the honor of our country. Our purpose tonight is to express the status of the colored men of Louisiana as volunteers in the imminent and, possibly long and deadly conflict with Spain. The heroism and valor of the negro soldiery is the great romance of three wars of America and he has always been found on the side of right and time of the nation's peril, its savior.

History, as portrayed by the partial pen of the narrator skillfully conceals his prowess in battle; the honorable part he bore in the successive wars are not praised in verse or song. 'T were good that they have been so long suppressed for they begin to be excavated from the hidden and seeming-an experienced officer as well as an excellent soldier. To set forth particulars of his conduct would be tedious. We would only beg to say, in the person of this negro centers a brave and gallant soldier. The reward due to so great and distinguished character, we submit to Congress.

In the war of 1812 which was mainly a naval engagement the ratio of the negro in the navy was about 1 to 6 and highest commendation was ascribed to his bravery and efficiency. Writing of an engagement between his vessel and a British frigate by Capt. Shalers of the armed brig General Thompson, he says: "The name of one of my poor fellows, who was killed ought to be registered in the book of fame, and remembered as long as bravery is a virtue. He was a black man by the name of John Johnson. A twenty-four pound shot struck him in the hip, and took away all the lower part of his body. In this state the poor brave fellow lay on deck, and several times exclaimed to his shipmates: 'Fire away, my boys; 'no haul a color down.' Another black man, by the name of John Davis, who was struck in much the same manner, repeatedly requested to be thrown overboard, saying that he was only in the way of others."

Though the negro did not find universal welcome to the ranks of the American army, yet when continued reverses and a lack of enthusiasm in enlistments were apparent, and made it necessary to seek the negro's aid, Gen'l Jackson at Mobile, Ala., Sept. 21, 1814 issued a stirring call to the free colored people of Louisiana for aid. Employing language which now should be coned as a precept for those whose judgments are warped and dwarfed by prejudice. He said: Through a mistaken policy you have heretofore been deprived of a participation in the glorious struggle for national rights in which our country is engaged. This no longer exists."

Again, listen to the testimony of the hero of the battle of New Orleans, the original democrat. On Dec. 18, 1814 he wrote as follows:

"To the men of color, soldiers. From the shores of Mobile I call you to arms. I invited you to share in the perils and to divide the glory of your white countrymen. I expected much from you; for I was not uninformed of those qualities which must render you so formidable to an invading foe. I ly lost recesses to substantiate claims of his superiority for warfare in Cuba.

For the benefit of the young men and the general information of this patriotic gathering, among the throng a vast number of ex-Union soldiers, I may be permitted to give a resume of the action and conduct of the colored soldier in the wars of the Revolution, 1812 and 1861, quoted from a pamphlet "Negro as a soldier," edited by Chastain A. Fleetwood, late Sergeant-Major 4th U. S. colored troops, for the Negro Congress at the Atlanta International Exposition. He says: "In all the events of the war, from Bunker Hill to Yorktown they bore an honorable part. The history of the doings of the armies is their history, as in everything they took part and did their share. Their total enlistment was about 3000 men."

I might instance the killing of Major Pitcairn, at Bunker Hill, by Peter Salem, and of Major Montgomery at Fort Griswold by Jordan Freeman. The part they took in the capture of Major-General Prescott at Newport, their gallant defense of Col. Greene, their beloved commander, when he was surprised and murdered at Croton River, May 13, 1781 when it was only after the last of his faithful guards had been shot and cut down that he was reached; or at the battle of Rhode Island when a battalion of 400 negroes withstood three separate and distinct charges from 1,500 Hessians under Count Donop, and beat them back with such tremendous loss that Count Donop at once applied for an exchange fearing that his men would kill him if he went into battle with them again, for having exposed them to such slaughter. The letter following written Dec. 5, 1775, explains itself.

To the Honorable General Court of the Massachusetts Bay.

The subscribers beg leave to report to your Honorable House which we do in justice to the character of so brave a man, under our own observation we declare that a negro man named Salem Poor, of Col. Fry's Regiment, Capt. Ames Company, in the late battle at Charleston, behaved like knew you could endure hunger and thirst, and all the hardships of war. I knew that you loved the land of your birth, and that, like ourselves, you had to defend a land that is most dear to man. But you surpass my hopes. I have found in you, united to those qualities, that noble enthusiasm that impels to great deeds.

"Soldiers: The President of the United States shall be informed—" and the voice of the representatives of the American nation shall applaud your valor, as your general now praises your ardor.

In the great intestine strife of 1861-1865 that rent this nation in train establishing sectional lines which now, if not completely, are nearly obliterated, the South made the initiative step toward the enlistment of negroes for the common defense. In 1861 Gov. Moore reviewed 28,000 troops in this city and one regiment comprised of "400 colored men." The New Orleans Picayune, referring to a review held Feb. 9, 1862 says: "We must also pay a deserved compliments to the companies of free colored men, all well drilled and comfortably equipped. After the South had abandoned the policy of further enlisting colored men, the North with great reluctance recognized the negro as a factor for good in the war. His efforts at first to gain admission to the armies of the Union met with opposition."

To General David Hunter is due the credit for the successful entry upon the stage of the negro as a soldier in this war.

In the spring of 1862, he raised and equipped a regiment of negroes in South Carolina. Such act, in Washington, raised such strong protest that the administration stood aside and left the magnanimous and brave general to vindicate himself as best he could. He was quite able for the task as was attested by the masterly and unanswerable letter that he wrote, a striking paragraph of which is reproduced:

"The experiment of arming the blacks, so far as I have made it, has been a complete and even marvellous success. They are sober, docile, attentive and enthusiastic, displaying great natural capacities for acquiring used by the British authorities in the West Indies—by the end of next fall I hope to be able to present to the Government from forty-eight to fifty thousand of these hardy and devoted soldiers."

In the last war 178,975 colored soldiers bore arms of which 36,847 were killed, 138 regiments of infantry, 6 regiments of cavalry, 14 regiments of heavy artillery, 1 regiment of light artillery composed our organization.

On 449 occasions their blood was spilled. Louisiana, with Kentucky as a second, furnished 24,052 medals of honor were awarded to 17 for their gallantry of action and other soldierly qualities; among the number Sergeant-Major Christian A. Fleetwood.

It is only too true that one must agree with the author of the "Negro as a soldier," when he says: "After each war of 1776, of 1812, and of 1861, history repeats itself in the absolute effacement of remembrance of the gallant deeds done for the country by its brave black defenders and in their relegation to outer darkness."

"History further repeats itself in the fact that in every war so far known to this country, the first blood, and in some cases, the last also, has been shed by the faithful negro and this in spite of all the years of bondage and oppression, and of wrongs unnumbered. Under the sun there has nothing been known in the history of any people more marvellous than these facts."

The hour is almost again upon this country when it will again be plunged in the vortex of war and to her soldiery must she look. The colored men of this Union are no less today desirous of entering the service and fighting for this country than they were in the preceding wars.

Ere they lay the flag of this people trail in the dust of defeat, albeit there might be provocation sufficient by virtue of mean environments to make them sullen and reluctant, they would rise above control of feelings, heal their wounds and with that true spirit of patriotism, strong as it has developed itself in our Castilian foe, buckle on their armor and with that courage and intrepid bravery shown on many a battlefield return with the folds of "Old Glory," not a stripe erased nor a single star obscured."

Colored Americans: the people of this Union will feel proud to learn of your interest and enthusiasm here to night for the success of our armies in war with a foreign power and I assure you I cannot find language adequate first to thank you for the honor of being selected as your chairman and secondly to congratulate you on the numbers you have brought out to this demonstration. Compatriots, let our motto be "America for Americans."

HONORING THEIR PASTOR.

REV. JAMES H. LEE CELEBRATES THE TWELFTH ANNIVERSARY OF HIS PASTORATE.—A DISTINGUISHED GATHERING, ELOQUENT SPEECHES AND A FINE REPAST SERVED BY THE LADIES.

The Rev. James H. Lee, was religiously and socially celebrated on Monday evening last, the 9th inst. by the Rev. George Washington Lee D. D., as master of ceremonies.

And after the delightful singing by the choir, the master of ceremonies announced that the Scripture would be read by the Rev. R. S. Laws, D. D., who read the 91st Psalm, "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most high, shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."

Prayer was then made by the Rev. W. J. Howard, for the occasion, for the country, and for regimental leadership of colored troops by men of their own race.

And after a hymn was announced by the choir by C. S. Cousenberry, which closed the devotional exercises, the program of the evening was introduced. Mr. Boynton Dodson, Superintendent of the Sunday school, read a paper on the "Relationship of church and Pastor," which was attentively listened to and fully enjoyed.

A solo, by Mrs. Rosa Gates, elicited great applause. A paper by Miss M. Hunter on the "Pastoral influence of the Sunday school" was simply wonderful.

A quartette by Miss Wallace and company was exquisite. A paper by Mrs. Susie Taylor on the "Relationship of church and Pastor to its Auxiliaries," was a force of support to every earnest worker. Short addresses by the ministers and men of other professions, editors, lawyers and school teachers.

The presiding master of ceremonies, Dr. Lee, said: "Thirteen years ago when I came to Washington, strolling around and seeing what I could see, the Third Baptist church was then communicating with the Rev. James H. Lee, the subject of our celebration gathering here tonight, in order to secure his services to the pastorate of this church."

Now that he has been pious, faithful, successful, the exhibition of his work and the appreciable arrangements of his friends for great recognition of these facts, as they are more fully establish the proof, than the eloquence of words.

Our acquaintance embraces all the time of my stay in Washington and our relation has been closer than our names.

His eloquence, his wit, wisdom and masterly method of wielding large audiences. Here, said the doctor, that other gentlemen may expose their relations and devotion and best wishes, I yield with these appreciations of my congratulations and now introduce the Rev. William J. Howard.

The Rev. Mr. Howard said: "that the Third Baptist church must have been inspired to call the Rev. James H. Lee."

Though he was one of her boys, he has won his virtues and other great qualities become great recognition of these facts, as they are more fully establish the proof, than the eloquence of words.

He said, at the death of the Rev. William B. Jefferson, there was no name but the name of James H. Lee and that other leaders of the following where Deacons William Lindsey Laws and Silas Holmes, both of whom are now in heaven."

Rev. C. R. Champ was next introduced and said: "of all these things love brought them together, love gathered them together, love will keep them together."

The master of ceremonies here said: ladies and gentlemen, I take great pleasure now in introducing to you a born orator, a born talker and a man who loves to talk, the Rev. Dr. Laws, this mulatto gentleman, great laughter and repeated applause.

Dr. Laws, our master of ceremonies knew just what to say. He knew that the master enjoined this upon me, I love to be obedient. My appearance before you this evening is with much delight.

My knowledge of this world and her trials runs 33 years back to the point of Bouldon failure through misfortune, Jefferson succeeded through humiliation, to the point where Lee is praised upon virtuous honors through a loveable churchhood and the intellectual surroundings and company of the greatest negro ministry on the globe.

He is that balling Lee, that hollered so loud 26 years ago, that he was heard in New Bedford and Baltimore at the same time, when he was introduced into the christian ministry by ordination and was called to the Salem Baptist church, New Bedford, Mass., in 1872.

In the history of the Third Baptist church fiercest trials, my recollection serves me with the names of James H. Lee, as clerk and as deacons, Octavius Alexander, Thomas Smith Robinson, Nicholas Silas Holmes, Robinson, Gray and Pryor, who after faithful services of many years, gave way though the demands of death and old age, to men of younger activity.

"Do you wish to hold what you have? If so, let me tell you how, talk him up above embarrasments, and pay him up above temptations. Now in conclusion Mr. Master of Ceremonies let me now congratulate you by my highest compliments, let me not frighten you by saying that Washington the greatest negroes and that you won as such inflicting Washington as she won in accepting."

The musical climes by the soloist and choir, the finest appearance of the audience, the new infusions by literary food for the future.

Rev. Philip H. Stewart, my ground of argument of last evening has been covered by all of the speeches of today.

A solo, by Hall of Miles, C. M. E. church. Editor, Rev. S. G. Lankins B. D. of the Christian Recorder gave credit to toil which is the mother of all success.

Rev. J. H. Hill, said; that any man of twelve years of stainless life in Washington is entitled to a seat in heaven.

Mrs. Hattie Douglas sang a solo, "Since my mother died and gone," which electrified the vast audience.

that applause after applause placed audience beyond control of the master of ceremonies.

Lawyers W. Calvin Chase and James M. Ricks were next introduced and spoke.

Prof. J. W. Cromwell of the public schools was next introduced and briefly but eloquently addressed the audience.

Prof. Henshaw, president of the Bethel Literary, was the last speaker. Appreciable reward of labors by class in recognition of pastoral services.

The committee of ladies who have had the supper in charge deserves special mention. The pastor's family occupied front seats in the church and Mrs. Lee, a very distinguished looking lady seemed to enjoy with much pleasure the deserved honor that was being bestowed upon her husband.

After the exercises in the upper portion of the church had concluded the audience and the invited guests repaired to the lecture room below where a table was set, the full length of the room, about one hundred feet. It was beautifully decorated with flowers and artistically arranged. This was in charge of the well-known caterer, Mr. Murray. There were fully two hundred invited guests at the table. Rev. Lee and his family occupied the head and at the foot was that pastor of the pulpit, Rev. George W. Lee. The choice and well prepared viands were discussed fully and freely.

The reception committee consisted of: Mrs. F. Loving, president; Mrs. B. Wormly, vice-president; Mrs. Bell Smith, secretary; Mrs. Mary Douglass, assistant secretary; Mrs. Nancy Nicholas, treasurer; and other members.

BAILEY'S IMPROVED TRUSS.

It adjusts itself so perfectly to the rupture that it is impossible for it to become displaced.

It permits the utmost freedom of motion with perfect safety.

All uncomfortable and injurious steel spring pressure is avoided.

The pad is held in place by woven bands, which retain an equal pressure in all positions of the body.

It can be worn in bed, a great desideratum to the young as tending to a perfect cure.

It is the only suitable truss for children and females.

The proper amount of pressure can be brought to bear and maintained in any position without pinching or harm to the wearer.

It will cure hernia if placed on the patient sufficiently early.

Excepting umbilical, it is the best truss ever offered for all kinds of hernia.

It is so perfect and comfortable in its adjustment that the patient in a short time forgets he is wearing it. (See the certificate of Mr. Daniel Johnson.)

Sent postage paid to any address on receipt of price; $3 for single and $4 for double truss.

In ordering, give location of hernia, right or left side, and measurement.

Satisfaction given or money refunded when the truss is returned in good order. Address:

St. Augustine Temple of the colored Shriners, celebrated its 2nd anniversary in grand style at Grand Rapids on the 5th day of May.

The 5th of May will long be remembered by the Masonic fraternity at Grand Rapids, Michigan. It was the celebration of the second anniversary of St. Augustine Temple of colored Shriners which is under the jurisdiction of the Imperial Grand Council of the Mystic Shrine of North and South America. A large number of prominent Masons from all over the State of Michigan were present on the occasion, and when the Imperial Grand Potentate, John G. Jones, 33 degree, of Chicago, Ill., and W. F. Connors, deputy grand master of the Masonic Grand Lodge for the State of Michigan arrived at the Chicago West Michigan Railroad Depot, they were met at the depot by forty of the Nobles of St. Augustine Temple in full dress uniform, headed by Prof. Wurtzburg's band of thirty pieces, and the grand officers and the reception committees were in carriages. The procession marched through the principal streets in Grand Rapids and made a grand display and frequently along the route they were applauded, they then marched to the Sweet Hotel, which is the largest and best hotel in Grand Rapids, where landlord Rice had prepared a repast for them. The dining room was beautifully decorated for the occasion and the Shriners did justice to the occasion; a grand banquet was held in the evening at Metropolitan Hall and was largely attended by the white and colored citizens of the place.
The Imperial Deputy Grand Potentate
John A. Bell, 33°, for the State of Michigan was toast-master at the banquet hall and when he introduced the Imperial Grand Potentate John G.
Jones of Chicago, a storm of applause greeted him which lasted for five minutes and nearly shook the building.
Brother Jones delivered a forcible and eloquent address which was listened to by marked attention and was frequently applauded; other addresses were delivered by James McConnells, 33 degree, John A. Bell, 33°, Joseph Jenkins, 33°, Henry R. Grayson, 33°
George E. Jacobs, 33°, H. S. Brown, 33 degree. The grand march was led by John A. Bell and Mrs. Bell.

This is the first time in the history of the State of Michigan that the colored Shriners ever turned out and appeared upon the public street. St.
Augustine Temple is the only Temple of colored Shriners in the State of Michigan, and the temple and consistory in Grand Rapids, Mich., has the honor of having the most complete arrangements and the best equipped and finest hall of any temple or consistory among the colored Masons in the United States.
